

Mary Reyland Interview

Now for a treat, let's meet Mary Reyland of POWER PLAY. Here's her interview with Donna Byrd of Lifestyle Magazine.

DB: Hi Mary, thanks for joining us today. Could you let our readers know what you do?

MR: I work for a government agency that awards federal grants to various organizations. My job is to monitor projects that have been awarded these monies to ensure that the job is done and that there is no misuse of funds.

DB: Do you enjoy your work?

MR: I use to, until my boss James passed me over for a promotion, again, and gave the position I wanted to my nemesis Dianne. On top of this, I was forced to work with Edmund Davis.

DB: I see that you're wearing a very interesting pair of stockings. Is this traditional wear for your office?

MR: They are now, since...oops, I can't tell you.

DB: Why not?

MR: Because there are a few things about me I can't reveal.

DB: Hmm, a woman of mystery. I won't try to uncover your secrets, but can you tell us more about Edmund Davis. How did you meet him?

MR: I met him in an elevator.

DB: Was it love at first sight?

MR: Hardly. I was attracted to him, but I didn't know who he was at the time, and I was still in a long term relationship.

DB: But you two are now married. Correct?

MR: Yes.

DB: How did that happen?

MR: Well, it's a long story...

